What is the magazine?

Focus is the magazine of Comhlámh, the Irish association of volunteers and development workers. Through Focus we aim to remind our readers that they do not stand alone on this globe. Focus informs its readers about issues of global justice.

Whether they involve farmers in Africa or refugees in Ireland. But Focus is about more than information. It is about engagement and about showing our readers the avenues they can take to change our world.

Who reads it?

Focus has a readership of around 8,000. Copies are sent to Comhlámh members past and present, as well as to affiliate organisations, and distributed through our various activist networks. It is also stocked in socially conscious shops and venues across the land.
